MUSICAL | MEDELLÍN

Medellin has always been a crucial point when it comes to music. This city with metropolitan airs is the house of a diversity of sounds: the suburban tango, the Salsa, the Hip-Hop, even the glamorous Jazz.

As the city grew and the times for entertainment and recreation came to the fore, musical practices adjusted to new influences.

The musical narrations that the city recounts in its streets and with what happens in it, will allow you to understand the feeling and expression of these genres in the spaces that the city has for its habitants and foreign visitors.

THE TANGO

Tango has made a multi-ethnic contribution to our culture, thanks to our colonial past: Indigenous, African and Creole.

When it comes to places to listen to Tango, you can not miss "El Patio del Tango". This tango place collects the best of the great eras and artists of this wonderful genre, you will hear live bands where the Bandoneon, the Guitar and dance artists will delight your evening.

THE HIP-HOP

The hip-hop of the 90's in Medellin was the only genre that took the task of forming a historical consciousness. The diversity that gives the beat in the urban landscape was noticeable, it was seen that a new neo-culture with teeth and without fear of using them was emerging.

In the Commune 13, you will be able to penetrate the urban imaginary of the city and live the Hip-Hop culture in Casa Kolacho. You will see some graffiti as an active element of this culture and as a way to a peaceful and joyful revolution that opens the mind towards times of peace and reconciliation.

THE JAZZ

It's been a long time since jazz stopped being an exclusive American music to become world music. Medellín was not far behind in absorbing it and today it is a protagonist with a style and very own characteristics.

In the last decade, important foreign jazz players who came to Medellín on concert tours, never left again to their origin countries.

Today, Medellín offers the possibility to experience the jazz at "El Club del Jazz", a project that seeks to spread this wonderful musical genre in a broader way.

MEDELLIN | THE SALSA

Images of the city, of the places where salsa is the protagonist of a Medellin that hosts a rhythm, allow us to understand through images the role of the city in this whole universe of the salsa. A city that speaks of it in dance schools like Dance Free and in bars like Buenavista Bar. It's not free that Salsa bars in Medellin are one of its main attractions because salsa is inserted in the everyday and in the urban lifestyle.
